As a student of social work education, students should study the Indian Constitution, its important articles and important provisions and apply them to the society. Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar was expected that it is up to the government of any ideology to act in accordance with the guidelines of the Indian Constitution.

He highlighted on free and compulsory education, said that free and compulsory education should be provided by the state. There was opposition to making such a provision in the Fundamental Rights, therefore included in the directive principals in the state policy. The condition of child education is still bad. Many child laborers are seen working on the streets. It seems to come from time to time. People need to vote with development issues in mind and not on the basis of Scheduled Castes. But it is being broken by making major changes in those laws. It is unfortunate to say that a nationwide strike has been called by the workers of India in celebration of Constitution Day today. The concept of country includes all the components of the country including women, children, SC, ST, workers. On this occasion, everyone should resolve to read the constitution and use the constitution for the benefit of the society. He expressed such an opinion.
