The inauguration of this conference was done by a MLA from a rural area of Dhule district. Prof. Sharad Patil Sir and Dr. Raghunath Mahajan Sir, Principal of the College was the President of this function. In this conference, the seed speaker was Prof. Dr. Manoj Parmar from Gujarat University, Ahmedabad and the chief guest was Hon. Dr. Bahadursingh Vasava (Veer Narmada South Gujarat University, Surat) was present.

At the beginning of the program, flowers were placed on the image of Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar and the image was worshiped by the dignitaries' present.

The introduction of the 5th National conference was done by the coordinator of the IQAC Prof. Dr. Pritee Wahane. she said in her introduction that Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar College of Social Work is organizing the Fifth National Conference on Poverty Alleviation as one of the goals of sustainable development. The conference was attended by professors /researchers /students from Pune, Aurangabad, Dhule, Nagpur, Nashik, and Gujarat and 40 professors sent their research articles/research papers related to one of the goals of sustainable development: poverty eradication. Also, almost 90 students and professors have participated in the conference so far. Also, in this conference, one of the goals of sustainable development: poverty eradication, should be discussed and exchanged in today's times. That is why this conference has been organized by the college.

Inguaration: Hon. MLA Prof. Sharad Patil

Hon. MLA Prof. Sharad Patil, while expressing his thoughts, announced that first of all, the conference on sustainable development: poverty eradication has been inaugurated. He said that farmers should be helped to make them financially capable. Such a picture will be seen in the future. He mentioned many examples of how much fertilizers will be used in agriculture today, food shortages are going to increase, and sources of income are going to decrease. There is no such kind of agricultural policy in our country. While living in today's life, the price of farmers' cotton is 6000 rupees per quintal, but after the same cotton product goes to the merchant, the merchant makes clothes and sells them for up to 1.5 lakh in the market. Such is the situation that the bullet train is going to pass through our Maharashtra, but the youth like us should realize that it has no importance. There are still no roads in our rural areas, so what about the people of the rural areas of this bullet train will be used. Today the land cannot be used properly. so, the farmer is selling the land. Big businessmen are trying to grab that land. Farmers in India are facing various/many problems. Farmers face many problems to water their crops. There are many schemes for farmers but due to lack of financial support from the government, various poor farmers commit suicide. People who are living in poverty. It is necessary to start a new scheme for the poor people at the government level and strictly implement and monitor the scheme. I think we should save Mahatma Gandhiji's thoughts. In the current situation, the political and social and economic conditions in the countries are creating a situation that complements the increase in inequality. On the one hand the poor are getting poorer and the rate of poverty is increasing. On the other hand, one class is getting more and more rich, and a big disparity is being created according to class, Prof. Sharad Patil expressed at the inauguration.

He expressed his gratitude to the college for inviting him at the inaugural function of the conference. Best wishes to all for the success of the conference.

Inaugration function:

MLA of Dhule District Rural Division Prof. Sharad Patil speaking at the inauguration.

2. Prof. Dr. Manoj Parmar (Bijbhashak):

The speaker of this conference Prof. Dr. Manoj Parmar expressed his opinion as follows. He explained the causes of poverty or the increase in poverty, and the effects on the society. He presented some international statistics and presented the nature of the problem of poverty in the world. Eradication of poverty is establishment of social justice and human rights. 17 goals and strategies to be achieved in 2030. How to do it correctly. MPI has three dimensions 1. Health 2. Indicating health 3. Health measurement 3. Education quality in 111 countries One point Two Arabs people live in poverty. The poor have no home, no schools to educate the children, no enough books to teach them. Multi-Dimensional Index A person gets Rs.150. Those persons are considered to be poor. In our word, Khandesh are considered as working people. According to the Women Development Report, we are at number 132. 22.5% of people are living below poverty line in portal publication.

Where there is corruption, there is poverty. Where there is no security, there is poverty. There were two persons in India who discussed poverty alleviation in rural areas and birth as a social issue. Two such important persons are Mahatma Gandhi and Babasaheb Ambedkar. In rural areas, a person becomes a sarpanch, but they do not get the right to take decisions. What has been achieved in the ongoing poverty alleviation programs so far? Employment has increased, the situation has changed, but there are some problems that need to be removed, the first is to pay attention to how to increase our income. In rural areas a person becomes a sarpanch but has No rights and authority to take decisions. The Human Rights Commission should implement various activities for the poor. We celebrate Independence Amrit Mahotsav, but have we freed ourselves from poverty? Have you ever thought about it? We need to think about it. He expressed such an opinion.

The speaker of this conference Prof. Dr. Manoj Parmar Sir presenting his opinion.

3. Prof. Dr. Bahadur Singh Vasava (Chief Guest)

The Chief Guest Prof. Dr. Bahadur Singh Vasava while expressing his thoughts said that he worked in Maharashtra for three years and worked in Sindhudurg and Raigad. While studying at Nirmala Niketan College of Social Work, Mumbai, and while going there, I used to see a boy every day who would pick food from garbage and eat it. Poverty in Africa was seen while watching TV news. In Pakistan, if there is no food to eat, children are told to take sleeping pills to sleep. Expressed such an opinion.

Chief guest in this conference Prof. Dr. Bahadur Singh Vasava, while expressing his thoughts.

The principal of the college Dr. Raghunath Mahajan sir in his presidential speech said that various activities are being implemented in the colleges on the occasion of completion of fifty years of Samata Shikshan Sanstha Pune and twenty-five years of the college. According to NEP, professors will now have to teach multiple subjects, and also prepare to go to different colleges to teach. Two years of education have been lost due to covid, it will affect the quality of students, which will never be recovered.

Today's children's writing, reading, and thinking processes are slow, there is a need to find a way out.

Coordination and introduction of the program by Prof. Dr. Dilip Ghongde. The keynote speaker of the program Dr. Ashok Pawar clarified the following points in his guidance. The tribals were kept in barbaric conditions. These tribes were called criminal tribes. Touching tribals were also considered impure in Hinduism. These tribes were kept vulnerable so this tribe did not develop. Tribal tribes have rights over water, forest, land, and mineral wealth. There are tribal populations all over the world. The real pikes of eternal development are the tribals. This World Tribal Day is celebrated to realize the glorious history of these tribes. Every year the theme of Adivasi Day is set. This year's theme is "Role of local tribal women in preservation and Transmission of traditional knowledge". At the level of knowledge, at the level of policy, at the level of technology, at the level of the system, at the level of language, at the level of natural resources, and the level of research, tribal tribes are mainly mentioned. At the level of language, at the level of script, the tribal tribe has given a lot to the country. There are freedom fighters from the tribal tribes and the information about the changes should reach the society. Chief speaker Dr. Ashok Pawar said that tribals are wrongly called Naxalists, if they are not getting their rights, then today we need to introspect.

Chairman of the program Hon. Dr. Raghunath Mahajan (Principal, Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar College of Social Work, Morane, Dhule) presided over the program. Dr. Raghunath Mahajan said that according to the global environment, the original tribal people have progressed in different fields. Today, the tribal community is behind the progress in every sector of the country. The tribals who live near the village are still backward. Everyone should try to change the picture that employment is a problem, migration is a problem, education is a problem, unemployment is a problem, ignorance is a problem, and poverty is a big problem. Research and extension work should be done for the development of tribal tribes. Government schemes should reach them. Child marriage used to take place but now its rate has reduced. Girls and boys should study more, not get married at a young age. The college should always organize the program.

Shri.Nanabhau Wagh (Shiv Sena Taluka President):

Mr. Nanabhau Wagh while guiding in his meditation also said that now the number of child marriages has reduced due to the fact that the parent class is well educated. Social work college has come and worked in our village since earlier. We have had a good relationship with the college for many years. A good program has been organized in the case of child marriage. Today in every house someone is educated so daughter or sister is not married at a young age. Earlier marriages were mostly done at a young age. I have also had a child marriage earlier but now in the village we do not allow child marriage. The law has made the age of marriage for a girl 18 and that of a boy 21. Nanabhau Wagh expressed the opinion that many problems arise due to child marriage.

currently in force in the country, according to which the age of marriage for a girl is 18 years and that of a boy is 21 years. According to this law, Gram Sevak has been entrusted with the responsibility to prevent child marriage in rural areas. Anganwadi Sevika has also been given the responsibility along with them. While in urban areas Child Development Project Officers and Anganwadi Workers are given the responsibility to prevent child marriage. The government is in the mood to increase the age of marriage for girls.

We have made a recommendation to the Central Government that every gram panchayat should pass a resolution in the gram sabha regarding the eradication of child marriage so that there will be no child marriage in the village. This recommendation has been accepted by the Law Ministry. If the resolution is passed in the gram sabha, then all those who attend the gram sabha and sign the resolution will be responsible for preventing child marriage. If child marriage takes place after all this, then according to the law, all those who have signatures on the Gram Sabha resolution will be guilty. This was guided by Mr. Nandu Jadhav.

Presidential Conclusion:

In 1929, the Child Marriage Prevention Act was the first to be passed in India regarding child marriage. After that in 2006 the Prevention of Child Marriage Act has been passed and now the government is looking to introduce a new law. Although the new law will come, it is the responsibility of the whole society to prevent child marriage in the society. Transformation does not happen suddenly, it takes years to wait. Kalam's father Jainula Badin belonged to a middle-class family.

He was in the business of taking the pilgrims coming from Rameshwar to Dhanushkodi by boat. His father and the named priest were close friends. The spiritual Lakshmanasastris among them used to listen to Kalam discussions. Kalam always inspires the students of the country with his thoughts. Bharat Ratna Dr. Abdul Kalam was a missile man, teacher, professor, and scientist. He was very fond of reading. Books not only inspire us, but they also impart knowledge. Dr. Abdul Kalam developed his love for reading because of his father. The influence of the father's personality is visible to them. His father was a great optimist and Dr. Abdul Kalam was also a great optimist. He said that success is the most important in life. According to him, three things are important in a human being: willpower, ambition, and hard work. Reading is the window to the knowledge of the world. Reading changes a person's life. So it should be read meaningfully. Students should focus on extra reading. Good reading provides entertainment and knowledge. The editorial is the soul of the newspaper and should be read by the students. Dr. Abdul Kalam's autobiography Agnipankh is a must-read.

Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar has said "Read if you read". An eminent philosopher Anant Desai in his old age could not pick up a book, so he used to tear the pages of a book and hold it in his hand. Even at the age of 90, Lakshmanasastris Joshi did not sleep without reading. Thus the penance of reading made these men learned and immortal.

Today students have mobile phones instead of books. Every person should read for one hour every day. New things are learned through reading. Reading Inspiration Day is being celebrated since 2015. If not for an hour, at least ten minutes should be read every day. Reading is necessary to become knowledgeable and polite. Change should be brought about by oneself. Police Station. During the visit, 50 female students were guided by Mr. Dattatray Shinde (Police Inspector) and Mr. Narendra More (Police Constable) on how to be careful against cybercrime and digital fraud.

Mr. Dattatray Shinde (Police Inspector) while guiding the students said that today the number of digital frauds has increased in different ways, and young women must take care that they do not get digital frauds.

Shri. Narendra More (Police) while guiding, though online banking transactions using mobile phones and computers have become a routine matter now, the amount of fraud in such digital transactions also seems to have increased. Bank never gives you account details. Never a PIN. So remember that anyone who asks you for this information is a liar. Do not make online payments to unknown persons. Nowadays no one wants to go to the bank and all transactions are done from home via mobile or the internet. Do not download apps sent by any unknown person on your phone, and do not open the links sent. When you are told that you have won the lottery, no one should believe it. Keep your phone location off. We are cheated by taking advantage of location. When we give our address while shopping online, cyber crime also happens. Also, the location of your mobile phone should always be turned off, because if the location is on, the hacker knows where you are and what you are doing.

How cyber crimes and digital frauds happen through different examples and how to be careful, Mr. Guided by Narendra More.

After that Mr. Rupesh Jain and Kavita Kadam from Canara Bank Morane guided the students regarding banking transactions.

Mr. Rupesh Jain while giving guidance said that a bank is an organization that provides financial services like accepting deposits, lending and advising on investments etc. A bank is a type of financial institution and falls under the category of financial intermediary. The most important services that a bank provides are taking some deposits, lending, and giving proper guidance on investments. The bank also offers a wide range of other financial products. Example – provide credit cards, provide consumer property or auto accident insurance. Bank provides money to people when they need money but here the people have to pay interest on this money to the bank. For this we can say that a medium acts as a medium between the sever and the bore. A bank is a money exchange institution.

After that Mr. Rupesh Jain guided how to fill bank deposit slip, fill withdrawal slip, how to write cheque, how to fill NEFT form. He explained all the sleep scans and showed them on the projector.

Inaugural Session: 10:00 am

Inaugural: Hon. Dr. Varsha Patil, (Senate Member, KBCNMU, Jalgaon)

Key note speech: Prof.Dr. Mahendra Kumar Wadhe (SSVPS College of Arts and Commerce, Dhule)

Chief Guest : Hon. Dr. Praveen Mahale (Sva. Karmveer Dr. P.R. Ghogre College of Science, Dhule)

President : Hon. Principal Dr. Raghunath Mahajan (Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar College of Social Work, Morane, Dhule)

Introduction of the program Done by Prof. Dr. Dilip Ghongde.

Inaugural: Hon. Dr. Varsha Patil (Senate Member, KBCNMU, Jalgaon)

Mrs. Dr. Varsha Patil Madam announced that the program was inaugurated at the beginning. After that he guided through PPT. Thinking about the ideas of well-being and aspiration for a better life is called development. Shasvat means eternal, something that lasts forever. Sustainable development refers to the idea that humans must sustain themselves by meeting their basic needs, while also ensuring that future generations can meet their basic needs. In other words, it is a way of organizing society so that it can survive for a long period of time without compromising the availability of resources for future generations. Sustainable development is development that meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs. Sustainable development is a way for people to use resources without exhausting them. In 2015, the whole world adopted the 'Sustainable Development Goals' through the initiative of the United Nations. The goals can be divided into 5 major areas namely Human Development, Earth Conservation, Prosperity, Global Peace and Global Partnership. In the human development department, by 2030, the goals are to eradicate poverty completely, ensure that no person goes hungry, have good health and quality of life for all, eliminate all forms of inequality, have access to clean water and sanitation for all. Partnerships are expected to be formed for exchange of scientific information, technology, continuous supply of financial assistance, increasing the share of developing countries in trade. Such guidance Done by Dr.Varsha Patil Madam.

Key note Speech : Prof. Dr. MahendraKumar Wadhe (SSVPS College of Aets and Commerce, Dhule)

Prof. Dr. MahendraKumar Wadhe said in his Key note speech that Colombia started to propose the idea of sustainable goals from 2011. Gradually many countries supported this idea. India's help in this regard was important. Through this effort, at the 2012 Rio+20 conference, all countries signed off on the concept of the Sustainable Development Goals as a guide for their collective progress beyond 2015. After this, the United Nations started discussing these goals at both political and technical levels. Governments of all countries, non-governmental organizations, various global organizations, associations, industry world and other groups were heard.

These efforts resulted in a program that states what principles should be adopted for what should be achieved by 2030. Based on this, each country has to set targets for its country. A total of 169 such targets have been fixed. For example, poverty alleviation aims to eradicate extreme poverty globally. It also aims to lift at least 50% of the poor from all forms of poverty. The aim is to double the production and income of small farmers while considering the goal of eradicating hunger. In this way, measurable targets have been fixed for all the objectives.

Chief Guest: Hon. Dr. Praveen Mahale (Sv.Karmveer Dr. P. R. Ghogre Science College, Dhule)

Eternal means something that lasts forever. We have some limited concepts of word development in our heads. It is not enough to say that there is economic growth or development. Individual, family and social well-being depends on some other factors which are different from economic development. Sustainable development is bigger than economic development. Sustainable development is a development that meets the needs of the present generation without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs. The Sustainable Development Goals, also known as the Global Goals, were adopted by all member countries in 2015 as a universal call to eradicate poverty, protect the planet and ensure peace and prosperity for all. The 17 Sustainable Development Goals are integrative, recognizing that interventions in one area will affect outcomes in others, and that development must balance environmental, economic, and social sustainability. After pledging to leave no one behind, countries have pledged to accelerate progress for the most backward. That is why the Sustainable Development Goals aim to bring about various life-changing zeros in the world, including zero poverty, zero hunger, zero AIDS, and zero discrimination against women and girls. Everyone must achieve these ambitious goals. Achieving the goal of sustainable development in various situations requires creativity, knowledge, technology, and financial resources from all societies. Chief guest Dr. Praveen Mahale expressed this opinion.

Dr. Raghunath Mahajan, Principal of the college gave the presidential guidance. Sustainable development has a human face. Realizing that the environmental damage caused in the name of development cannot be compensated by any means, mankind has felt the need to embrace sustainable development. Sustainable development simply means sustainable development. A development that is done for the greed of money by merely increasing material facilities for temporary gain and which depletes natural resources and damages them permanently is not sustainable. Planning development in this way means sustainable development. Any development is done by humans. Therefore human development is also important. Today's webinar on sustainable development will be guided by various speakers. Principal Dr. Raghunath Mahajan expressed the opinion that the students should take further steps according to the concept of sustainable development.

The program was moderated by students Vinshika Khedkar and Isha Gaikwad and a vote of thanks was given by Prof. Dr. Farida Khan.

Session 1 - Time: 11:30 AM

Topic: Sustainable Development Goals

Resource Person: Hon.Dr. Praveen Mahale (Sv. Karmaveer Dr. P.R. Ghogre Science College, Dhule)

Dr. Praveen Mahale gave guidance on the topic of Sustainable Development Goals through PPT. He gave the following information in it. The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development proposes 169 Sustainable Development Goals with 17 goals of an integrated and integral nature covering economic, social, and environmental sectors. Sir gave guidance regarding the objective of sustainable development. Then informed about the strategy to achieve the objectives.

The new strategy will manage the global development agenda for the next fifteen years. By adopting it, states commit to aligning the means necessary to implement it through partnerships that pay particular attention to the needs of the poorest and most vulnerable. The 2030 Sustainable Development Goals of Agenda 17 were developed over two years of public consultations, dialogue with civil society, and negotiations between countries. This agenda represents a common and universal commitment. However, since each country faces specific challenges for sustainable development, a country has complete sovereignty over its wealth, resources, and economic activities and each country will respond accordingly. Set your own national goals. The Spanish government is actively committed to creating this universal and transformative agenda. Spain's position was determined through a participatory process, which included academics, experts, and representatives of the national administration and autonomous communities.

The program was moderated by Vinshika Khedkar and a vote of thanks was given by the student Isha Gaikwad.

Session II - Time: 12:30 PM

Topic: Role of NGOs in Sustainable Development

Resource Person: Hon. Mr. Kushavart Patil (Lupine Human Welfare and Research Foundation, Dhule)

In the second session of the webinar, Mr. Kushavart Prakash Patil gave the following guidance through PPT about the role of NGOs in sustainable development.

NGOs play an important role in moving towards the achievement of the 2030 Sustainable Development Goals. As the seventeen Sustainable Development Goals and the Development Agenda are an interwoven process, all stakeholders must work together. Grassroots and ground-zero initiatives need to be targeted. Generating development resources and creating a sustainable future requires a broad partner network of NGOs, community-based grassroots groups, and the unorganized and engaged private sector.

Challenges such as poverty, hunger, education, and sustainable development can be addressed when people at the bottom have access to income opportunities, tools, and institutional support to do business, equal education, better working conditions, and green technology. When informal enterprises, micro and small enterprises are empowered, they bring about positive change, thereby achieving sustainable development. Many NGOs work on sustainable development targets such as poverty, hunger, quality education, and decent work. The newly emerging discourses of sustainable development, human rights, environmentalism, and feminism appear to be at the center of many of these efforts. NGOs seem to focus on intervening in society on behalf of the exploited and underprivileged groups using their knowledge, training, and skills. Many NGOs are seen simultaneously trying to reach policymakers and organizations working at the village level through coordination and networking. Due to the work of NGOs, there is a progressive change in some government policies. Mr. Kushavart Patil opined that sustainable development can be done with the initiative of a voluntary organization.

The session was moderated by Varsha Gaikwad and the vote of thanks was given by student Kawane Sali.

Session III - Time: 1:30 PM

Topic: Sustainable Development and India

Resource Person: Prof. Praveen Suryavanshi (Vidyavardhini College, Dhule)

In the third session, Prof. Praveen Suryavanshi gave guidance on sustainable development and India. In the beginning, he talked about what is called sustainable development. In it, he said that sustainable development means such development, through which the needs of the present generation can be met without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their needs. Eternal means something that lasts forever. The word development has some limited concepts in our heads. It is not enough to say that there is economic growth or development. Individual, family and social well-being depends on some other factors which are different from economic development. Sustainable development is bigger than economic development. A short-lived development may not last long. It is necessary to fulfill the basic needs of man. But at the same time, in sustainable development, it is equally important that the future generation meet their needs (water resources, air quality) without depleting natural resources. From Delhi to UNO, the important question is why the need to consider the concept of sustainable development arose. Since the beginning of time, human beings have adopted ways to make their lives happy.

This session was moderated by Jijisha Devare and the student Neha Pagare gave thanks.

Session IV - Time: 2:30 PM

Subject: Environmental Laws for Sustainable Development

Resource person: Prof.Dr. Sandesh Shegaonkar (Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar Memorial Law College, Dhule)

In the fourth session of the webinar, Dr. Sandesh Shegaonkar gave the following guidance on environmental laws for sustainable development.

In the year 1992, a conference on environment and development was held in Rio de Janeiro by the United Nations. At that conference, a new division under the United Nations umbrella, the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC), was established. It was a decision taken jointly by the member countries of the United Nations, and since 1995 the representatives of the countries involved in this decision started meeting every year. The purpose of these annual conferences is to review the current state of global climate change, and the efforts being made to address it. The Kyoto Conference of 1997 was of historic importance due to the agreement it reached. Global climate change and the resulting global warming are completely man-made, so if there is an imbalance on Earth, mankind alone will be responsible for it. This warming is mainly due to the greenhouse effect. There is a need for radical efforts at the global level to prevent global warming. The Kyoto Protocol is an important step in that effort. The second phase of the agreement has been approved until 2020.

The Forest Act, of 1927, a pre-independence forest act, was amended to freeze the rights of farmers occupying forests and gave the forest officers very limited powers in the draft amendment bill. The Wildlife (Protection) Act, of 1972 protects wild animals, birds, and plants and matters connected or incidental to them to ensure the ecological and ecological security of the country.

Water (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act, 1974: This Act is important to prevent water pollution. According to this law, everyone must have access to clean water for drinking and consumption. The Water (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act, of 1974 was enacted to prevent water pollution by industrial, agricultural, and domestic effluents.

Forest Conservation Act 1980: This Act provides for the protection of forests and matters related to the habitat of many animals. The purpose of the Forest (Conservation) Act was to ensure the protection and conservation of trees. So that by supporting wildlife, we can save the habitat of many animals and check the deforestation and degradation of forest resources. Protection and Improvement of Environment and Protection of Forests and Wildlife - The State shall endeavor to protect and improve the environment as well as protect the forests and wildlife of the country. Every citizen of India has to protect and improve the natural environment including forests, lakes, rivers, and wildlife as well as to have compassion for living creatures.

Environment Protection Act, 1986: According to Section 5 of the Environment Protection Act, 1986, the central government can direct the closure of any industrial or business group if any environment is harmed in its daily activities. Under Section 15 of the Act, if any person fails to comply with the provisions of the Act and the instructions regarding environmental protection, the said person or the representative of the industry group shall be liable to imprisonment for five years and to pay a fine of up to one lakh. Special courts deal with cases related to the environment. A 'National Green Tribunal' has been set up for speedy and effective adjudication.

The decision of the Tribunal can be directly appealed to the Supreme Court. Failure to comply with the orders of this tribunal may result in heavy fines. Since the establishment of the National Green Tribunal, no other court in India has jurisdiction to entertain or entertain any case related to the environment. Such guidance was given by Dr. Shegaonkar. He then guided the court on various environmental judgments.

The session was moderated by Swati Bahiram and a vote of thanks was given by the student Sunita Bahiram.

Session V - Time: 3:30 PM

Topic: Challenges to Sustainable Development

Instrument Person: Prof. Gautam Sadavarte (BP Arts, SMA Science, KKC College of Commerce, Chalisgaon)

In the fifth session of the webinar, Prof. Gautam Sadavarte guided through PPT on the topic of challenges facing sustainable development.

There are many challenges facing sustainable development in India. While many of these problems stem from the insensitive use of natural resources, government accountability in solving serious problems is also diminishing. This degradation of the environment has a direct impact on the lives of individuals, affecting longevity, which in turn affects the entire development process. Degraded soils, shrinking aquifers, shrinking forests, deteriorating urban environments, and destroyed ecosystems can lead to poor living standards and quality of life in the future. The challenges are both natural and man-made.

Deforestation, threats to biodiversity, effects of climate change, rising pollution levels, groundwater depletion and pollution, poor health, literacy rates, and environmental sustainability lead to water contamination and safe drinking water. Sir guided like this.

Neha Mahanore, a student, moderated and thanked this session.

Concluding Session - Time: 4:30 PM

Chief Guest:- Hon.Principal Dr.Ishwar Saundankar (College of Social Work, Chopda Dist. Jalgaon)

President :- Hon. Principal Dr. Raghunath Mahajan (Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar Social Work College Morane, Dhule)

Hon. Principal Dr. Ishwar Saundankar congratulated the college for organizing this webinar on the topic of sustainable development. Since this morning various speakers have guided you on various topics on sustainable development. Sustainable development is a multifaceted concept. Interdependence is a concept. Earlier we had abundant natural resource wealth but now due to population growth and technology growth, man started using it more. Man is destroying forests for his selfishness. The result is today's polluted environment. Today, natural resources are getting less and less. Natural resources are depleting as we fall behind the capitalist productive system. Man always thinks of his development but never thinks of nature. Sustainable development is important for the social, economic, and political development of man. The most important thing is to control the population. Nature and man have a close relationship while living a human life. Sustainable development is important to create the human will to live. The United Nations Commission on Environment and Development was established in 1987 by the Director of the World Health Organization. So the concept of sustainable development is very broad. While looking at how much economic development has taken place through sustainable development, it is also important to see how much environmental degradation has taken place. Sir challenged everyone to fulfill their responsibility towards society as students of social work.

Dr. Raghunath Mahajan, the principal of the college, concluded the presidential ceremony. From 10 am we are discussing sustainable development. We have organized this webinar both offline and online. If we consider all aspects of the conservation of the environment, conservation of biodiversity, conservation of human resources, and population control, we have to move towards sustainable development. It is necessary to see if the policies passed by the governments are in favor of sustainable development, said the principal of the college, Dr. Raghunath Mahajan.

Aarti More moderated the formula and a vote of thanks was given by student Tinkal Nikam.

Rs. 15000/- received from the university for the said program.

Date: 3/3/2023

Lecture program

On 3/3/2023, guidance (lecture) was organized at Dhule District under "Environment Protection and Conservation Mission" on two topics wise environment protection and soil conservation and environment. Mr. Dilip Patil, sarpanch of War village, was present in the said program as the chairman. Mr. Premkumar Ahire (Chairman, of Maharashtra Nisarg Committee) was present as an instrumental person to guide the issue of environmental protection. Mr. Abasaheb Santoshrao Patil was present as an instrumental person to guide soil conservation and the environment. Apart from this, college principals Dr. Raghunath Mahajan, Dr. Sudam Rathod, Dr. Dilip Ghongde, and Dr. Farida Khan attended the program. Mr. Anil Thackeray, Sukhdev Patil, Hilal Wagh, Phuljabai Bagle, and Gram Panchayat members of War Village were present. Gram Panchayat constable Gopal Vagh was present. Other prominent citizens of War Village were present in the said program.

Subject: Environment Protection

Resource Person: Mr. PremKumar Ahire (Chairman, Maharashtra Nisarg Committee)

Mr. Premkumar Ahire gave topic-wise guidance on environmental protection and conservation. In it, he said that when the environment deteriorates, people fall ill. Trees are very important for the environment. We must stop the felling of trees. Today, the environment is under threat due to deforestation, increasing pollution, and climate change. Along with humans, wild and aquatic animals are also suffering its consequences. Man has cut forests for his selfishness and built cement forests. Preference is given to plastic bags instead of cloth. As a result, instead of reducing the intensity of environmental change, it is becoming more intense day by day. Today the world has not even thought about what we have lost while achieving development and progress. In the name of development for communication, the trees along the roads were slaughtered on a large scale.

Humans cut down trees and built cement houses for shelter. The cutting of trees continues even today. Overall, inexcusable deforestation has become a concern today.

Today, the water storage on the ground has decreased. The water is not decreasing automatically but due to the cutting down of trees by humans, the water reserves are decreasing. Water conservation is the need of the hour. For that, we should save water. Water should be used only as needed, water should not be wasted. March 3 is World Wildlife Day. Many days are celebrated for the protection and conservation of the environment. Shri. Premkumar Ahire did.

Mr. Prem Kumar Ahire is the Maharashtra President of Nisarga Mitra Samiti. The Nisarga Mitra Committee has prepared the mandate of Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj. This order was given by the sarpanch of War Village and the principal of the college.

Subject: Soil Conservation and Environment

Resource Person: Mr. Abasaheb Santoshrao Patil (State General Secretary, Nisarga Mitra Samiti)

Mr. Abasaheb Santoshrao Patil guided that the most important but equally neglected subject in the world is land i.e. soil. According to environmentalists, due to increasing urbanization and increasing population day by day, we are said to have destroyed the topsoil over the last few years. It is a fact that without soil, plants will not be able to sustain themselves. In the coming times, maximum forest protection, and water storage should be created in large quantities. It is also important to maintain the existing water reserves in a pure form and avoid the use of non-degradable materials like plastic. Otherwise, it is impossible to maintain the balance of the environment no matter how hard we try. For this, everyone has to stop cutting trees and use minimum water. Also, we have to live a plastic-free life.

Deforestation should be banned. Tree plantation should be given special emphasis. Soil erosion can be prevented by constructing embankments on sloping land. Emphasis should be placed on protecting soil from erosion during construction and mining. The field should be plowed against the slope.

The adoption of crop rotation techniques should be increased to make the soil valuable in nutrients.

Presidential Conclusion:

College Principal Dr. Raghunath Mahajan presided over the program. In the presidential guidance, Dr. Raghunath Mahajan said that water, land, and forests should be protected and conserved for the environment. Regarding the environment, Sir gave the example of War Village. Trees are seen in abundance in War Village. Water is an integral part of life. Land pollution is increasing. Water pollution has increased. Principal Dr. Raghunath Mahajan expressed the opinion that everyone should try for this.

The program was moderated by student Rachel Shirasath and a vote of thanks was given by student Mahindra Patil. 46 students of college and citizens of War Village attended the said program.

Subject: Environment and Health

Resource Person: Hon. Dr. Prashant Vishwakarma (Jawahar Medical Foundation, Dhule)

Hon. Dr. Prashant Vishwakarma gave guidance on the environment and health. In it, he said that environmental factors have a great impact on your health. Environmental risk factors behind various diseases are pollution, airborne microbes, soil contaminants in water or food, droughts, heat waves, natural disasters cyclones, earthquakes, floods, and the use of pesticides and other chemicals that affect health. Air pollution, climate change and natural disasters, microbial diseases, and water quality can invite serious health problems. Environmental pollutants and industrial wastes can cause respiratory diseases like asthma, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, bronchitis, heart disease, irregular heartbeat, respiratory failure, depression, stroke, wheezing, cough, and shortness of breath. The number of deaths due to pollution has also increased in recent years. Pollution also increases eye and skin problems.

Unsafe drinking water and unsanitary conditions lead to diarrhea, cholera, meningitis, and gastritis.

It is necessary to maintain a healthy environment for people to live longer and improve their quality of life.

Subject: Water Resources and Environment

Resource Person: Hon. Dr. Sanjay Dhodere (Abhay Women's College, Dhule)

Mr. Dr. Sanjay Dhodare provided subject-wise guidance on water resources and the environment. In it, he said that it is said that there is life because of water. People are the biggest wealth in this country. If these people come together and save water, which is the greatest wealth of nature, then the face of this country will change. Because the rapidly depleting water reserves and the resulting increasing demand for water have become a matter of serious concern for the country today. Water has been given special importance in human life since time immemorial. The water storage system has also been important since time immemorial. But, as the population increases, so does industrialization. The agricultural sector is expanding. Also, water-based hydropower projects are being created. Therefore, the water demand is constantly increasing. Various efforts are being made to meet this increasing demand and water conservation is being increased. Construction of rivers and wells is going on. Experiments on water recycling are underway. But, the efforts are not enough to meet the growing demand. The water demand is increasing day by day and the availability of water is decreasing. It is estimated that the water demand will double by 2030. The day when a barrel of water will cost more than a barrel of mineral oil is not far off. We need to prove ourselves from now on to face the threat by taking this potential threat seriously.

Sir also guided me about the causes of water scarcity. Climate change is the main cause of water scarcity. Dr. Sanjay Dhodare gave guidance to use water carefully and save water.
